Ponders Win Double Header

OCEAN PONDERS 4 — Ocala 3
" " 11 — Lake City 0

Under a brilliant Florida Sun, last Sunday, the Ocean Ponders baseball team captured a double header from the teams representing Ocala, Co. 1420 and the Lake City town team.

In the first encounter of the day the locals eked out a victory over their most friendly rivals, the boys of Ocala, 1420. The locals were out-hit, both in number and distance, the visitors secured six hits of the deliverings of the Knuckle Ball King, "Pop" Zimmerman, which included a homer and a triple by Burroughs and Patterson, respectively. The local ball tossers secured but four safe blows from Burroughs, the visiting fast ball artist. But these came when ducks were on the pond. Burroughs fanned nine of the locals and walked five while Zimmerman whiffed the same number and issued four free passes to first base. Errors by the visitors was responsible for two of the local runs being scored. While one of the visitors scores was the result of an error by the locals. It is the plan to play the Ocala team a return engagement at Ocala in the near future to decide the winner of the series as each has won one to date.

In the night cap game, Lake City offered little competition to the local boys being smothered under by a score of twelve to nothing. After the third inning of the night cap affair, the locals shifted about, most of them playing a different position each inning. Giles held the visitors to one hit during the three innings which he toiled on the mound for the home team. He was followed by Brooker who allowed two hits in the next three innings. EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES

Education is a progressive reconstruction of experiences toward more satisfying ends. Education is the usual word for schooling, gained either from teaching or from experiences and these experiences are modifiable.

The fundamental aim of education is to change the individual so that he will be able to better adjust himself to his ever-changing environment.

A good education, used to an advantage, is more valuable to the individual than anything else he can ever possibly acquire during life time.

The value of education is shown by the fact that today young College graduates are selected as presidents of the large corporations in preference to old men of long experience. This is an age in which the educated man is shown preference over the uneducated. It is also an age of "specialists", therefore every young should specialize in the one profession that he wants to follow for life.

Education does not have to be obtained while in the teens. Pardon the personal reference, but take myself. I started to college last year after being out of H.S. for five years. I am sure that I obtained more good out of the years work than those who were younger and had just finished H.S..

Therefore I say to the boys of Co. 451, it is never too late to finish your schooling, go on.—by, Pawley.

took up the twirling duties at the beginning of the seventh and was relieved during this inning with the bases full and only one man out by none other than the old maestro, Zimmerman, who came in from short-stop to pull another Rube Waddell stunt by striking out the remaining two batters, while the infield and outfield held a conference around the pitchers box, much to the enjoyment of the spectators.

Williams, at short stop, was the outstanding player for the losers. Douglas pitched a nice game for the losers but nine errors by his team-mates let in many of the Ponder's runs.

Box scores of the games is as follows:

The Champion Bull Shooters of the Co., Prodic Owens and The Terrible Turk, other-wise known as "Bud" Fox, were cast against the two old Pool Sharks Roccaforte and McDowall.

ROUND ONE: Fox and Owens win it with their faces wreathed in smiles.

ROUND TWO: Fox and Owens again win with Fox almost breaking a facial muscle with his grin.

ROUND THREE: The two teams begin to play for drinks. The stakes were Coco Colas.

ROUND FOUR: Fox and Owens are taken by the canny veterans McDowall and Roccaforte by a score of 100 to 20. The cries of Fox and Owens bring the fish of Ocean Pond lake to the surface in droves to see what could be dying on this shore.

ROUND FIVE, SIX, AND SEVEN: The people in Olustee complain of the loud yowling heard in the vicinity of Company 451. Owens and Fox are stuck for the drinks.

FAREWELLS

It is with the greatest regret that the entire company bids adieu to one of the most popular men the company has ever had among it's ranks. During his twenty months of duty at this camp he has shown himself to be a man of the highest qualifications, not only in a businesssman-nner but also from a physical and moral stand point. While an enrollee of this company he worked his way from the woods through the kitchen to the position of mess steward. May his future life be as successful as was his stay at company 451. Good Luck always to for a real man.
